WEATHER KEY POINTS

10/05/20 - 10/11/20

Monday-Thursday

- Elevated fire weather conditions continue across many foothills and mountains each afternoon due to locally gusty winds and low humidity
- Gradual cooling trend each day in temperatures, but still remaining above normal for early October
- Areas of poor air quality and smoke also continue
- Stronger winds possible by Thursday afternoon which could lead to additional fire weather concerns

Friday-Sunday

- Change in the weather pattern expected late week into the weekend
 - Increasing chances for precipitation across northern and possibly central California
 - Stronger winds possible on Friday before precipitation arrives, which could lead to higher fire weather concerns
 - MUCH cooler temperatures arriving statewide into the weekend
